This course is not designed to train one to become an accountant! The primary goal is to give students the knowledge of how to work with finance professionals in the organization to the benefit of the organization and the inhabitants of the jurisdiction.

Additionally, it is designed from a practitioners’ viewpoint and is intended to equip both the mid-career manager and the full-time academic student with skills in financial management.

INSTRUCTIONAL STYLE AND EXPECTATIONS

- The instructional style is interactive and participative. It will involve a blend of lecture, group discussion and some group work. The individual participation grade focuses on the student’s contribution to the learning of others.

- It is expected that students will complete the assigned materials, prior to each class so that rewarding dialogue and knowledge transfer can occur as we discuss concepts and in-field applications.

- In-class use of laptops or other electronic aids will not be necessary for this course.
